TANKS ARE BEING SENT TO IRELAND TO PRE-

John Dillon, Nationalist Leader, Makes Strong Plea Against Drastic Methods. —Time Limit for Debate on Draft Bill Extended.

London April 20 1890

London, April 12.—(Joint.) Dillon, Irish nationalist leader in the house of commons, yesterday said he understood motor cars, machine guns, and tanks already had been shipped and were sailing away from the battle front toward Ireland. Mr. Dillon pleaded strongly against what he termed the government's "guillotine methods."

The debate on the mun power bill centered largely around a discussion of request by Dr. Dillon and others for more time in which to consider the measure. The government consented to permit the house to add two days to the time for discussion. The bill then entered committee and an

Was Contemplated.
 "We had every reason to believe the government contemplated legislation upon the issue of 'our labor,'" said Sir Horace Plunkett. "The work of an Irish settlement, it is now felt, admits of no further postponement. In the Dominion and the United Kingdom, the same feeling is expressed."

states as well as the allied countries. The unsettled Irish question is a disturbing factor both as regards war efforts and peace aims."

After possibility of an agreement has been explored, Sir Horace Plunkett writes he was instructed to draft a report which would be a narrative of the convention proceedings, with a statement for government information of the conclusion adopted unanimously or by a majority.

Was Adopted.

This draft of the report was adopted, by a majority. Sir Horace added the public has been provided with no majority report in the sense of a reasoned statement in favor of a conclusion upon which the majority is reached, but which has been left to gather from a narrative of the proceedings what the contents of such a report would have been. The issuance of a report by the Issuer

Sir Geddes, in the house of commons last night, according to a Reuters dispatch from London, intimated that only 7 per cent of the men affected under the man power act would be required this year and the remaining 93 per cent would remain in civil life. Engineers were reported by the speech to be "streaming to the colors."

Promises of a home rule bill by the government has had small effect in easing the way to conscription in the land, according to the special dispatches from Dublin. The unionists will not sit quiet and allow the bill to be rushed through and more conscripts sent to the front. The more conscripts in the defeat of conscription than in obtaining home rule. The Irish Times, which has claimed for conscription, has been severely rebuked for conscription in parliament accepting it, suggests that in the six weeks before conscription can be effective the national army will attempt to persuade the conscripts by voluntary recruiting, a result which it says should persuade the government to abstain.

Demand Recognition.
The principle of representation for Ireland in the imperial parliament was insisted upon by the southern unionists, says Horace, and the nationalists conceded it. The Irish members of the parliament at London under this plan would be elected by the Irish parliament. It was agreed that Ireland should contribute to the cost of the imperial service. The Irish parlia-question, which is unprecedented in history. Sir Horace Plunkett, chairman of the convention, in a letter accepted the report of that body. The convention did not find it possible to overcome the objection of the Ulster unionists, says Sir Horace. A majority of the nationalists, all of the southern unionists and five of the seven labor representatives agreed upon a scheme of Irish self-government, which is given in the conclusion reached by the majority which should be enacted into law.

The Letter.

In his letter which is addressed to Premier Lloyd George, the chairman of the custom question became one says the book, and that upon a division regarding it depended the extent of an agreement which could be reached. The geographical position of Ireland imposed instructions regarding the naval and military affairs and the claim for "home rule" was concentrated on the demand for unrestricted self-determination. The nationalists made fiscal power. The national fiscal powers a strong case for such fiscal powers and were able to prove that considerable numbers of the leading commercial men have come to favor fiscal autonomy and majority of nationalists and southern unionists agreed in order that a parliament might be established at once to postpone the decision.

sion in regard to control of the custom. The nationalists were prepared to agree to free trade with England, but the southern unionists joined the Ulster unionists in opposing a system of custom control.

TWO MEETINGS WILL BE HELD ON SUNDAY

SECOND BIG PATRIOTIC MEETING WILL BE HELD AT CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH SUNDAY EVENING.

BAND AT BOTH PLACES

Jackie Band Will Play at Both Places—Young People of City Requested to Attend Congregational Church if Possible.

With the prospects of the Sunday evening patriotic meeting at the Myers theater being one of the largest that has ever been held in this city, the committee to hold a similar meeting at the Congregational church, in the desire of the many young people of the city as far as possible to attend the meeting at the Congregational church.

Both meetings will be addressed by the same speakers and the Jackie Band from the Great Lakes Naval Training station will play at both places. M. C. Coffey will preside at the meeting at the Myers Theater and Rev. William Mahoney will preside at the Congregational church. The orchestra and choir from the Institute for the Blind, at the Congregational church at the meeting at the Congregational church.

Hon. Thomas Kearney of Racine, and Daniel Grady of Portage, are coming to this city with a message of importance. They will give two ringing addresses and it is the desire of the committee to have both places crowded. Both meetings are big patriotic gatherings for education of American citizens. The meeting at the Myers theater will be more on the order of the one at the Congregational church. All citizens of German, Polish, Danish, Norwegian and French extract are especially urged to be present. One of the speakers at the meeting at the Congregational church is one of Wisconsin's most brilliant sons. He knows our German American people and is their friend. He is out to bring their true history to the fore, which is their heritage and they are especially urged to hear him.

The Jackie Band and the speakers will arrive at the city Sunday afternoon at 10 o'clock. The speakers will be taken to the Y. M. C. A. where supper will be served them by Alice Bowerman. The doors of the theater will be open promptly at seven o'clock and it is requested that the people come early in order to avoid a rush just before the meeting is ready to open.

The stage will be reserved for the band and the men workers of the campaign and the boxes and the first four rows downstairs will be reserved for the ladies workers. The meeting is going to be purely patriotic and one of the largest gatherings that has ever attended a meeting in this city is expected Sunday evening.

DIVIDENDS DECLARED BY CAMP EXCHANGES

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Battle Creek, Mich., April 12.—The part that overhead expenses play in business is strikingly apparent at Camp Custer, Mich. The National Army have proved to their officers that they are not only splendid soldiers but successful shop keepers.

Twenty-seven thousand dollars in dividends is soon to be disbursed to the various companies. This money is the net profit from canteen exchanges and canteens which have been operated for several months by the selected men. It has been officially announced that each man eligible to share in the profits will receive about $1.75. It is expected that dividends will be declared more frequently hereafter.

When Camp Custer was organized, the government decided that the men—and not outsiders—should reap the benefits of canteen profits. Restaurants, soft drink huts and other stores soon were opened in various parts of the camp. The big laundry was put into operation. "Perfect service, pure goods, and tiny profits," was the canteen slogan.

The shop-keepers did not have to pay for heat, light or rent. They obtained their goods from the government practically at cost. They began to do business at a small margin of profit but quickly it became apparent that prices could still be reduced and the profits increased. Finally, a restaurant announced that men would be charged 25 cents a meal. Said meal consisted of "all you could eat, provided you clean your plate."

OBITUARY

Mrs. Frances R. White.

Word was received this morning by Mrs. Alice E. Mason of the death of Mrs. Frances White at Waupaca, Wis. Mrs. White was a former resident of the Waupaca Veterans Home and a very patriotic worker in the department of the Ladies of the G. A. R. She was a past president of the department and at the present time was one of the council of administration of which Mrs. Mason is the chairman.

Mrs. Robert Lilburn.

The funeral of Mrs. Robert Lilburn will be held at one o'clock Saturday afternoon from the home in Emerald Grove. Interment will be made in the Emerald Grove cemetery. Rev. O'Neal will conduct the services.

Mrs. Catherine P. Richards.

The funeral of Mrs. Catherine P. Richards will be held from Trinity church Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The Rev. Henry Williamson officiating at the service. Interment will be in Oak Hill cemetery.

Take Over Steamers.

Manitowish April 12.—Five large steamers plying on Lake Michigan have been commandeered by the United States government for war purposes. As the vessels were taken over by the navy department and not by the shipping board there is considerable speculation as to what use they will be put.

Geese Go West.

Stevens April 12.—Thousands of wild geese have been flying over this locality to the past several days and all the flocks are bound in a westerly direction. The geese are at a high altitude in passing over this city but they are not the ground as they reached the outskirts.

Burn German Books.

Menominee, April 12.—Every German textbook in the public schools will be burned on July 7. The board of education has decided on this plan and has adopted resolutions declaring that the teaching of German in the public schools of America has simply been part of the Teutonic propaganda plan.

Chicago Markets.

Chicago, April 12.—General conditions in the live stock trade are seemingly very healthy at present with traders predicting out-of-sight prices, especially for best matured beefs and lambs.

Cattle prices advanced all over the year yesterday, with Chicago's top 30c higher than Friday and the highest since November. Armour & Co. and Morris & Co. both paid up to $16.25. Kansas City and Omaha reported a top of $16.

Another gain in hog values carried the top and average to highest points in a week. Shippers bought a few as high as $18. Armour houses followed the advance reluctantly.

The average price of hogs at Chicago was $17.65, against $17.55 Wednesday, $17.70 a week ago, $16.13 a year ago, $9.87 two years ago and $7.34 three years ago.

Best Steers Higher.

Most steers went steady to 10c higher, while the best kinds advanced 25c, topping at $16.25. Butcher stock ruled strong and sold readily. Bulls were firm, while stockers and feeders looked steady. Calves declined 25c@50c and best made $14.50. Quotations:

Choice to fancy steers $15.40@16.25

Poor to good steers 12.00@15.35

Yearlings, fair to fancy 13.00@15.00

Fat cows and heifers 8.00@13.00

Canning cows and cutters 7.00@7.90

Native bulls and stags 8.50@12.00

Feeding cattle, 600@1,100 lbs. 5.40@12.10

Poor to fancy calves 10.00@14.50

Hogs Highest Early.

Hogs averaged generally 10c higher, although some showed more gain early. The market closed weak, with bids only steady with previous day. A small bunch made $18, but top for load lots was $17.90. Pigs were steady and because of poorer quality none passed $16.75. Quotations:

Bulk of sales $17.45@17.85

Heavy butchers and shipping 17.55@17.85

Light butchers, 1800@230 lbs. 17.80@17.95

Mixed packing, 2000@250 lbs. 17.20@17.55

Rough, heavy packing, 1650@16.90

Poor to best pigs, 600@135 lbs. 13.50@17.00

Stags, 80 lbs. dockage per head 17.35@18.00

Most Lambs Unchanged.

Sheep sold generally steady, although a few shorn wethers and yearlings gained 15¢@25c. Most of the shorn and woolled lambs held steady. Colorado lambs made $21.10 and shorn westerns $17.85. Colorado yearlings made a phenomenal record of $19.60. Shorn wethers sold at $15.25 and yearlings at $16.60. Quotations:

Lambs, common to fancy, 1000@18.75@21.10

Lambs, poor to best, 17.00@18.50

Yearlings, poor to best, 17.00@18.50

Wethers, poor to best, 15.00@16.50

Bucks, inferior to choice 10.75@16.75

Bucks, common to choice 12.50@15.00

Above quotations for woolled stock. Shorn lots at $2@3 discount.

English Army Is In Fine Condition

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Ottawa, Ontario, April 12.—The British army in France is as well equipped today as when the German offensive in Picardy began. England having replaced all the lost guns and having increased the quantity of machine guns, according to Frederick George Kellaway, British parliamentary secretary of minister of munitions.

A Rouser dispatch received here today from London quotes from a speech Mr. Kellaway made last night at Bedford, England.

"The tanks which the Germans captured have been replaced by ones of superior model and the ammunition consumed has more than been made good, while men were steadily being released to fill the gap occasioned through the loss of man power. In the air Great Britain continues as strong if not stronger," he said.

THE NEW BOND CAMPAIGN.

The United States has entered on its third campaign for the sale of Liberty Bonds. The solicitors will get a good hand in most homes. There are comparatively few people who could not take at least a "baby bond."

Yet there are still some left who will say "Let Germany do it." If every one "saves the buck" over to someone else, the Germans will rule the world and we shall all have to kneel to the Kaiser.

It should be possible to pay for these bonds out of the daily savings of the people. Those that have not yet formed the habit of saving should begin now, and take a bond on the installment plan. By saving a dollar or more weekly, they can have interest coming in regularly every six months, and at the end of the term they will get the principal back.

This man who could take a bond, small or big, and want, shows up in a poor light. He is getting all the blessings of free government. It is all a free gift from the sacrifices of the patriot forefathers who gave us the right to make a man's money. It is not a free gift. It is a right that we won't lift a finger to help pass on these blessings to his children.

Furthermore, if he doesn't look out, he may have no blessings to pass on. The German power has set out to crush the world. Only by general cooperation can we ward off this menace. If we can't go into the trenches, the very least we can do is to help pay for food and weapons for those who go.

Compared with the sacrifices of those who go or send boys there, taking a bond is too insignificant a trifle to be worth a moment's argument. The man who won't help arm and feed the soldier who defends his life, home and property, should be ashamed to show his face on the streets of Janesville.

GAS ATTACKS.

On April 1, 1915, the Germans violated all laws of modern warfare by beginning the use of poisonous gases. They triumphantly rejoiced in some initial successes gained in the confusion and surprise following the first attacks. As the war has gone along, the allies have been driven to adopt the same weapon.

They are now delivering gas quite as efficiently as the Germans today, but they have better gas masks for meeting it. Under these circumstances, it is not surprising that the Germans quite naturally think the time has come to discard it for "humanitarian" reasons.

Probably the people is that the Germans are shy of cotton. The soldier in his gas helmet must breathe. He must have purified air. This is accomplished by introducing the air through a pad of their muslin, treated with anti-asphyxiating solutions of ammonia or other drugs. Cut off from cotton supplies, it would not be strange if the Germans were very short on suitable material for making gas masks.

These soldiers are well protected, a gas attack is very deadly. Atmosphere containing one one-thousandth of chlorine is apt to be fatal. But our gas mask factories are turning out a protective device so perfect that the wearer is immune. The training camps are urged to give the men plenty of tests in putting on these masks, and going into the gas rooms.

In that way they learn to adjust the masks quickly. A few seconds saved in adjusting the mask will often save them from getting seriously gassed. Also the more they walk around in a gas room with the mask on, the more confidence they will feel against this form of German frightfulness.

WAR ACTIVITIES.

Rock county has been called upon for support of many war activities. The demand has been increasing and the strain constant. Chief among these calls have been for Red Cross work and the result has been most astonishing. If the women of the county had been told two years ago that they would abandon their card clubs, give up their afternoon teas, do away with their social activities, to knit sweaters, wrappings, stockings or helmets for the soldiers, sew pajamas or make surgical dressings, cut out and make clothing for the refugees, they would have been broadminded. But the unexpected has come. The demand was made and the women have risen to the occasion as did their mothers and grandmothers of long ago, in similar war times. The result has been wonderful. Last Saturday marked the formal advent of the United States into the war and yet now there is not a community, no social gathering, not a little card club of days gone by or a coterie of young women, who are not actively engaged in war activities and doing wonderful work. As the days go on this work will increase in volume, become more important than ever to winning this struggle being waged across the water so far from home. All hail to the women of the day and the part they are playing in winning this war.

IGNORANCE IS BLISS.

Even the English army is blessed with sufficient red tape to wind about the entire British Isles so it is a bit curious to find one of the "smart young chair-warmers" meeting his "Waterloo" just as the "sticklers" down at Washington are meeting theirs day by day at the present time.

During the British advance on Jerusalem the British struck an ancient tomb and revealed a skeleton. Archeologists believed the skeleton that of an ancient figure, John of Antioch, and sent this message to the war office in London:

"Have discovered skeleton, supposed to be that of John of Antioch."

The war office replied: "Cannot trace John Antioch. Send identification disk."

ON THE SPUR of the MOMENT

BOY K. MOUTON

ALAS! POOR DOUGHTUT.

Oh, friend of my youth,
 Of my struggles, forsooth,
 To gain a small foothold in some
 Of the things of time.

You've stood by and fed me
 While fortune has led me,
 But fortune has put you far out of The game.

It is announced that, if provisions are not found in copious quantities in Russia, the Germans will eat the Russians.

My idea of nothing to eat is a Bolshevik.

Resolved: That starvation is better than indignation.

NOW, ALL TOGETHER.

To hell with the Huns—with the foes humanity.
 Death to the demons of Prussian Kultur.
 Down with the nation obsessed with insanity—
 Treacherous, murderous, foul and vile.

PLAN CONSERVATION OF GARBAGE WASTE

Madison, Wis., April 12.—Wisconsin cities will be called upon to make a still further saving of their garbage waste. In a food conservation bulletin just issued by the extension division of the University it is shown that the results already obtained have been a reduction in the amount of garbage waste of 25 to 50 per cent. The bulletin suggests the use of feeding the garbage to swine, and declares that such a method has been unduly condemned. It points out that pig-breeding is profitable and can be handled in a sanitary way.

In spite of all we can do there will necessarily be some garbage wastes which in the aggregate amount to a large tonnage. Says the report, "When it is known that the average garbage produced by 45 people will put 200 pounds on a hog in 6 months without any added feed, some little idea can be had of the value of garbage as a hog food."

"There is nothing new in the plan of feeding garbage to swine. In fact it was the prevailing system of garbage disposal thirty years ago and is being adopted in some sections of the United States. Like the other sanitary problems it has been badly handled, so that the general public today looks with suspicion upon this method of disposal. However, the consensus of opinion among unbiased sanitary engineers and garbage disposal experts is that garbage can be and is being disposed of in a sanitary manner, without danger to public health and at a very distinct profit."

"Applying the garbage wastes to our state of Wisconsin, let us see how much effort would be utilized there. Hogs are quoted at $17.50 per hundred pounds on foot at present. It represents that a gain of $35 per hog as fed on the garbage produced by 45 people."

"In Wisconsin cities having a population of 1,000 or more there is produced enough garbage to sustain more than 50,000 hogs annually. In gross returns this means an annual income of approximately $2,000,000 if properly conserved. Just how much of this saving can be effected is problematical, but it is thought possible to save at least one-third of this enormous waste if the proper attempt is made."

STRUCK BY TRAIN; KILLED INSTANTLY

KENNETH FINLEY, SON OF MR. AND MRS. JAMES FINLEY, MEETS UNTIMELY DEATH THIS MORNING.

CAME HOME THURSDAY

Car Which He Was Driving Was Thrown Fifty Feet by Impact At Western Avenue Crossing.

Kenneth Finley, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Finley of the town of Rock, was instantly killed this morning when the south bound C. & N. St. P. passenger train going to Beloit, struck the car which he was driving at the crossing on Western avenue and threw him fifty feet through the air into the ditch by the side of the tracks. The train was stopped within a short distance of the scene of the accident and medical aid rushed to the man's assistance, but to no avail. The scene of the accident was a sad one. The car was so great that the car and its occupant was lifted bodily from the tracks and thrown to the side, a distance of about forty feet. During the flight through the air the dead man must have been thrown from the car, because when he was picked up, he was some ten feet from the wreckage of the car.

Although he died instantly the body of the young man showed few marks except a few bruises on his face. It is the opinion that he struck on his head as he landed, resulting in his death.

Finley left his home about ten o'clock and started for Janesville, where he was to meet his brother, John, who was waiting for him. As he neared the crossing, the train which leaves the station at 10:45 o'clock struck him either because of the driver's inability to see the train or because the engine of the machine stopped. Due to the fact that the car was so great that the scene of the accident it is thought that the engineer saw the peril of the young man and attempted to stop the train in order to avert the accident.

When picked up the dead man's head was in a pool of blood which was issuing from the wound in his head, resulting from the blow he received when he struck the ground. The car was completely demolished and showed that the train struck the car on the left front wheel and lifted it from the ground. During its flight through the air and landing, the wind shield, wheels and top of the car were smashed.

Shortly after the accident occurred Dr. Fember appeared on the scene to give what aid he could, but the life of the young man was gone and no medical aid could help. The body was taken to Ryan's undertaking rooms by the ambulance.

Kenneth Finley was nineteen years of age and for some time past had been working in Kenosha. He came home on Thursday to visit his folks.

He leaves to mourn his loss besides a loving mother and father, four brothers and one sister. The brothers are: John, Frank, Clarence and Harold and the sister, Elizabeth.

G. E. Clark is seriously ill at his home at 316 Linn street.

Receives Letter From Son.—Mrs. Julia Fleming of Brockway avenue, received a letter yesterday from her son Jimmie, saying he arrived safely in France with the other soldier boys.

Heart and Home Problems

LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MRS. THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) We are stenographers with an office force of men. They are all very nice, polite, but the superintendent of the shop is the type of man that wants to be attractive. He always comes into the office or is there when we are alone. He seems to be interested in us, but we can't tell him that we know it. I don't like him to be so attentive. Would it be all right to tell him that we know it? I don't like to write and tell him about it.

(2) Do you think it is proper for a married man to say "Hello, Kid," or "Good morning, Kid," to a young lady?

(3) Do you think a married man who frequently is talking about his car and a little spin in the presence of young ladies is courteous?

BROWN EYES AND BEAUTY. (1) Having an opportunity to be very helpful to a man who needs help. If the superintendent thinks so constantly of girls and is neglecting his work he will not be retained in his position. He should be told and thank you always if you tell him your honest opinion. This is a test of your character. You should not tell the man's employer or his wife. (2) No, it is not proper. It is cheap.

(3) It depends upon the circumstances. If the man is talking about his car to another man, the stenographer has no business hearing. If he talks directly to the stenographers themselves they may know that he lacks a sense of fitness.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young man who has a very good position and am able to give a girl a slightly good home and all the comforts of life. I have a lot of friends.

HEALTH TALKS

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO DR. BRADY, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE.

Round Shouldered Girls

One in every twelve schoolgirls between the ages of ten and sixteen years has spinal curvature, and one in eight has round shoulders. Round shoulders are frequent in boys, too, but not nearly so frequent as in girls of this age.

Round shoulders were made fashionable as a natural feature of the debilitated slouch. You see this slouch posture affected by the pretty boys who hang out in cigar stores and parlors nowadays—their clothes are built for it.

A little girl at this age begins to read omnivorously. She loves to curl up in a big chair and read. It is all right. Let her do so. But when the hour for play and exercise arrives see that she uncurls and gets the exercise.

There are two special exercises highly beneficial for children with round shoulders. Sunken chest and general slouch, relaxed posture, almost always concomitants of round shoulders, and these exercises are good for the whole unsightly deformity.

1. Each night and morning, with only the palms of the hands, take the dachshund posture and crawl rapidly around the floor for three minutes. The dachshund crawl—on hands and knees as if ordinary crawl, then pull the chest sink nearly to the floor and bend elbows outward, uncurling in this headlow position.

2. Every hour, when the clock strikes, sit on the floor, let the child stand with clasped hands at back as for rider to mount. Then, without loosening finger-clasp, turn the thumbs forward, downward, under the back. This forcibly pulls the shoulders down and back and tends to push the chest upward and forward.

EVERYDAY ETIQUETTE

When dressing for a dinner, special attention should be given to the hair. If a woman expects her husband to continue to admire her after several years of marriage she will have to keep herself worthy of his admiration. The wise woman will never appear in negligee at breakfast even in the midst of her family, unless it is clean, shiny and becoming. As a rule it is better to wear a pretty, fitted morning frock of wash material, with neatly dressed hair. It takes only a few minutes longer to dress properly than it does to slip on a robe and cap. Even if there is housework to be done later which will necessitate a change of attire, the time and trouble to make the change rather than allow your dearest friend to see you in soiled or ragged frock. Then, too, your children should not see their mother habitually looking "sloppy."

Frederick: Your companion certainly did impose upon your courtesy when she loaded you with a basket of food. You are not obliged to take the only thing consistent with good manners in politely enduring her rudeness. You need not find yourself walking with her again.

nor there. Why not assume that you have incipient (early) tuberculosis and take the open air rest cure for a few months? It would be sure to do you good.

Protein Does Not Make Muscles. How long could one live on a strictly fruit diet? It would not make very much. Fruit contains so little of the protein of muscle building element.

ANSWER: With bananas, raisins, apples and oranges, one could get along pretty well for a few days. Bananas, being a perfect food, and are indeed the staff of life for some tribes. You are misunderstanding about protein. Protein does not build muscle; it is a source of energy and of repair material. Protein, carbohydrate and fat are equally tissue in the body; no one of them is more essential than the others. Each one is a part in particular.

Household Hints

MENU HINT

Baked Apples, with Cooked Cereal.
Milk Toast. Coffee.

Breakfast.
New England Oyster Roast.
Brown Bread Sandwiches.
Cabbage Salad.

Lunch.
Roast Turkey-Quarter of Mutton.
Mint Jelly.
Boiled Onions.
Sliced Oranges and Bananas.

SANDWICHES.

Dainty Sandwiches—Spread the bread with butter after removing the crust, cut in one and one-half inch widths. Dip with brush or butter in mayonnaise dressing, place on one-half the sandwich, sprinkle chopped meat on and place the other half over.

Angarman Sandwiches—Take one-half pound cream cheese, one hard-boiled egg, three small pickles, four olives, one-half cup English walnuts and small cup of pineapples. Grind all ingredients together and mix with sweet mayonnaise. Put between toasted crackers.

Rougefort Sandwiches—Take about one-quarter pound of Roquefort cheese and about the same of cream cheese, also two green peppers, the heart of a stalk of celery, one-half cup mixed nuts, one tablespoon butter, twinkle salt and two onions. Chop onions, nuts, celery and pickles fine; add cheese and butter; rub smooth and sprinkle with paprika. Add mayonnaise. Spread on either side white or dark bread or put between crackers.

THE TABLE.

Vegetable Soup (very nourishing).—Three cups, two oz. white beans soaked night before, six large pared and sliced potatoes, celery, two carrots sliced and steamed in two ounces butter. Put all in three quarts of water; boil three hours, strain, add salt, pepper and one teaspoon extract of beef. Lastly add pinch of thyme. Makes enough soup for four persons.

Oyster Pie—Three cups diced potatoes, half pint tender, one pint oysters.

SIDE TALKS

—BY—
RUTH CAMERON

Do You?

My neighbor had a letter in her hand and a frown on her brow when I dropped in on her, the other morning. She sighed as she laid her letter down to greet me.

"Not bad news, I hope?" I said.

"My Neighbor Crosses A Bridge," she said. "Not exactly, but my sister Ann is coming here to have her daughter come here to school. She doesn't say anything about her coming to the house, but I know she will expect me to offer to take her and I'd be perfectly willing to, myself, but we haven't any extra room except the room James uses for a little home office. He could have his desk moved into the bedroom, but I know that would put him out awfully. And if I don't have Louise, Emma will think it is very strange. Well, I shall just tell John that my sister is coming and that I must try to accommodate myself to me; this time."

She sighed again, and a half belligerent, half frightened look came in her eyes.

All The Misery A Woman Feels In Defying Her Husband.

I know "John" fairly well. I know how it feels to be a woman who is balked of his comfort. And I could see that she was going over, in her mind, the arguments she would make and all the irritable protests he would make, and I'd be perfectly willing to stand out for something against a domineering husband.

"I think there are a great many women who impose a needless burden on themselves in just this way. Needless, whether the thing ever comes to pass or not. Needless, if it comes to pass, because it is quite enough to go through such a scene once, without having

Her Great Adventure

THE ANSWER.

Throughout the next few days everything Claire did was permeated with the one thought—brought to her by Hiram. She woke up thinking of it. She prepared breakfast to its accompaniment. She was absentminded when the boys toddle and when she demanded third helpings of creamed potatoes, and had to be shouted at. When her mother asked her to read alone, Claire scanned whole pages without getting the sense of it, her mind being filled with the consideration of a marriage that seemed so right—and yet so unthrilling.

That was it. The entire fitness of the match between herself and Hiram was undisputed. He was a good man, prosperous, industrious, dependable. He had known her always and would be unlikely to fall short of his promises as the vine-covered church she had attended since childhood to be missing from its corner of Main and Chestnut streets.

But the LURE of being Hiram's wife—Claire shivered as she went about the house, dusting and setting things right. There was no thrill to it, no compulsion of her blood for the man. Hiram was a good friend, a reliable neighbor, a worthy man in every way. But to be Mrs. Hiram, to live in the heart, ugly gray painted house with the squares of colored glass in the front door and the cupola with the "gingerbread" scrollwork! To be responsible for the running of that house, the supervision of Hiram's three meals, the caring for his child

Yet whenever Claire thought of Daisy, she softened, and began to add to her list of pleasant aspects of being Hiram's wife. The care of little Daisy would be a delight. The child loved her, and she felt tender in return. Claire was fond of children—knew how to amuse them and win their confidence.

And there would be money, for Hiram was known to be a good wage earner and highly "rated" in the world of trade. Claire remembered the day they had driven together in the Ford and Hiram had pointed out all the acres and the houses and farmsteads he owned.

She would be able to get her clothes from New York. She could "motor" in Hiram's Ford on trips in summer, or have a car of her own to drive. She could have Jane Browning visit her. But Jane would bring the breath and flavor of New York. Ah, New York! The thought brought a remembrance of her shattered dreams. She thought of Lane—of Reaves—of Whitney even, and his crazy-run office, his endearing, hapless and chaotic life. Then—all her plans would be chaos again.

When, three or four days later, Hiram found opportunity to walk home with her from the grocery store, Claire knew the time had come for her answer.

"You know, Claire, I've always—without preliminaries, as they climbed the hill from Main street. He had hold of her elbow, to help her, and as he spoke he pressed it closely to him. Claire had a slight feeling of repugnance, but was too considerate to withdraw her arm as she wanted to do.

"Have you, Hi—I didn't know—" tors. Line pie tins same as for ordinary pie, add filling with milk, butter, pepper, salt, sugar and eggs. Bake in hot oven. Many families do not serve squash owing to the difficulty in paring same. Following is an easy way of preparing in large pieces, table.

To Cook Squash or Pumpkin—Wash, remove a piece from blossom end, scoop out seeds and pulp. Cut a tube cake tin, place the cavity over a vegetable over the tube and put one cup of water in tin. The tube conveys the heat to all parts of the vegetable. Remove from oven when done and the skin will peel off like paper.

COTTAGE CHEESE RECIPES. Cottage cheese is very healthful and is a good food substitute. Here are several good recipes.

Cottage Cheese Salad No. 1.—One half pound cottage cheese, three eggs (hard-boiled), one dozen sliced olives, salt, pepper and onion juice to taste. Serve on lettuce leaves.

Cottage Cheese Salad No. 2.—One half pound cottage cheese, four apples, one cup sweet milk, one cup mayonnaise. Serve on lettuce.

Cottage Cheese Pie—Line deep pie tin with rich crust and fill with the following: One-half pound cottage cheese, one cup sweet milk, two eggs, one-half cup sugar, pinch of salt. Flavor with cinnamon. Bake as any custard pie.

KEEPING PEAS GREEN.

To retain the green color of peas boil in much salted water, with a few sprigs of parsley, and when done rinse quickly in cold water before placing on the top of the stove to remove the slight chill they have suffered.

Washing Won't Rid Head Of Dandruff.

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

Do this tonight, and by morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop at once, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and never fails to do the work.

kindness and earnestness about Hiram that drew her. A dozen half-formed impulses restrained her from speaking the tiny word of commitment. They reached the path that led to her door. A sudden overwhelming desire to be alone possessed her. She looked appealingly at Dennet, took his hand, pressed it warmly and rushed into the house.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. They are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel. His efforts to banish it brought out these little olive-colored tablets. The pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after-effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel, but to let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place. Most headaches, "dizziness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "foggy" and "heavy." Note how they "clear" clouded brain and how they "perk up" the spirits. 10c and 25c a box. All druggists.

A NOVEL BY BEN BEACH

Author of "The Iron Trail," "The Spoilers," "Heart of the Sunset," etc.

The Quest Begins.

When O'Reilly had finished his second reading of the letter there were fresh blots upon the pitifully untidy pages. "I write nicely, only the ink is poor." "There is little of anything here at Asencio's house—" "It is cold before the dawn—" "Poor little Rosa! He had always thought of her as so proud, so high-spirited, so playful, but another Rosa had written this letter. Her appeal stirred every chord of tenderness, every impulse of chivalry in his impressionable Irish nature. "O God! Come quickly, if you love me," He leaped to his feet; he dashed the tears from his eyes. Johnnie's preparations were conducted with vigor and promptitude; within two hours his belongings were packed. He seized his hat and hurried downtown to the office of the Cuban Junta.

A businesslike young man inquired his errand. Johnnie made known a part of it, and then asked to see someone in authority. In consequence, perhaps, of his Irish smile or of that persuasiveness which he could render all most irresistible when he willed, it was not long before he gained admittance to the presence of Mr. Enriquez, a distinguished, scholarly Cuban of middle age.

O'Reilly plunged boldly into the heart of the matter which had brought him thither. When he had finished his tale Mr. Enriquez inquired:

"But how do you expect me to help you?"

"I want your advice more than your help, although you might tell me where I can find Colonel Lopez."

Enriquez eyed his caller keenly. "That information would be very well worth having," said he. "But, you understand, we know little about what is going on in Cuba—far less than the Spaniards themselves. I'm afraid I can't help you."

"You don't take me for a spy, do you?" Johnnie asked, with his friendly grin.

"Ah! You don't look like one, but we never know whom to trust. This young lady in whom you are interested, who is she?"

"Her name is Varona; Miss Rosa Varona."

"So?" Enriquez raised his brows. "Not by any chance the heiress to that famous Varona treasure?"

"Exactly!—if there is such a thing. Here! Read this. I want you to believe me." Reverently he laid Rosa's letter before her countryman. "I'm not in the habit of showing my letters to strangers, but—I guess that'll convince you I'm not a spy."

He sat silently while the letter was being read; nor was he disappointed in the result. Mr. Enriquez raised dark, compassionate eyes to his, saying:

"This is a touching letter, sir. I thank you for allowing me to see it. No, I don't doubt you now. Poor Cuba! Her sons must be brave, her daughters patient."

"Well! You understand why I must go quickly, and why I can't chance delay by going either to Matanzas or to Havana. I want to land somewhere farther east, and I want you to help me to find Colonel Lopez."

Mr. Enriquez frowned thoughtfully. "What I just told you is literally true," he said at last. "We work in the dark up here, and we don't know the whereabouts of our troops. But—I have a thought." He excused himself and left the room. When he returned he explained: "I don't have to tell you that we are watched all the time, and that for us to assist you openly would be liable to defeat your purpose. But I have just telephoned to a man I can trust, and I have told him your story. He has relatives in Cuba and he agrees to help you if he can. His name is Alvarado." Writing an address upon a card, he handed it to O'Reilly. "Go to him, tell him what you have told me, and do as he directs. Another thing, don't return here unless it is necessary; otherwise when you land in Cuba you may have cause to regret it."

Doctor Alvarado, a high type of the Cuban professional man, was expecting O'Reilly. He listened patiently to his caller's somewhat breathless recital.

"You do well to avoid the cities where you are known," he agreed. "But just how to reach the insurgents—"

"If you'd merely give me a letter saying I'm a friend—"

The doctor promptly negated this suggestion. "Surely you don't think it can be done as easily as that?" he inquired. "In the first place, wherever you land, you will be watched and probably searched. Such a letter, if discovered, would not only end your chances, but it would bring certain disaster upon those to whom it was written. My two brothers, Tomas and Ignacio, reside in Cuba, and we all work for the cause of independence in our own ways. I am fortunately situated, but they are surrounded by dangers, and I must ask you to be extremely careful in communicating with them, for I am placing their lives in your hands and—I love them dearly."

"I shall do exactly as you say."

"Very well, then! Go to Neuvas, where Tomas lives—there is a steamer leaving in three or four days, and you can arrange passage on her. He is a dentist. Meet him, somehow, and make yourself known by repeating this sentence: I come from Felipe. He told me how you whipped him to keep him from going to the Ten Years' war! That will be enough; he will ask you who you are and what you want. You won't need to say anything more. No living soul, except Tomas and I, knows that he thrusted me, but it is true. He will understand from the message that I trust you, and he will help you to reach the rebels, if such a thing is possible. Come and see me when you get back, and bring me news of Tomas. Now, adios, compadre."

"Adios, señor! I am deeply grateful!"

O'Reilly had no difficulty in securing passage direct to Neuvas on the English steamer Dunham Castle, and a few days later he saw the Atlantic highlands dissolve into the mists of a winter afternoon as the ship headed outward into a nasty running sea.

Chas, when it came fairly into sight, lay bathed in golden sunshine, all warmth and welcome, like a bride upon an azure couch. The moist breath from her fragrant shores swept over the steamer's decks and Johnnie O'Reilly sniffed it joyfully.

Although there were but a few passengers on the Dunham Castle, they were subjected to a long delay, during which suspicious customs men searched their baggage and questioned them.

Finally, however, O'Reilly found himself free to go ashore.

El Gran Hotel European, Neuvas' leading hostelry, belied its name. It was far from large, and certainly it was anything but European, except perhaps, in its proprietor's extravagant and un-American desire to please, at any cost. But it was the best hotel the place afforded, and Senor Carbajal was the most attentive of hosts.

He evinced an unusual interest in the affairs of his American guest, and soon developed a habit of popping into the latter's room at unexpected moments, ostensibly to see that all was as it should be. When, for the third time, he appeared without knocking, O'Reilly suspected something.

"You have everything, eh?" Mr. Carbajal teetered upon the balls of his feet while his small black eyes roved inquisitively.

"Everything in abundance." "You are a pleasure traveler? You see the sights, is that it? Well, Cuba is beautiful."

"I'm not a tourist. I travel for my health," said O'Reilly.

"You—Health?" Carbajal's frame began to heave; his bulging abdomen oscillated as if shaken by some hidden hand. "Good! Ha! There's another joke for you."

"I'm a sick man," O'Reilly insisted, hollowly.

"You don't look sick," mumbled Carbajal. "Not like the other American."

"What other American?"

"A peculiar fellow. He went on to Puerto Principe. What a cough! And he was as thin as a wire. He died at the mouth, too, all the time, when he was not reviling my hotel. You'll see him if you go there, provided he hasn't come apart with his coughing. I believe he writes for newspapers. Well, it is my pleasure to serve you. Command me at any hour." Mr. Carbajal rose reluctantly and went wheeling downstairs to his grimy tables and the flies.

Dinner Stories

For this story, referring to the Stratford bard, a Chicago prize went to a woman:

The late Senator Tabor, millionaire owner of Denver, built the Tabor Grand Opera House at Denver some thirty years ago. He employed an Italian artist to decorate the interior, with the understanding that he (Tabor) was not to enter the theater until the work was completed. Over the center of the proscenium was a picture of Shakespeare. On a tour of inspection in company with the artist, Senator Tabor said: "Whose picture is that?" The artist replied: "Shakespeare." "Shakespeare! What in heck did he ever do for Denver?" You paint him out and paint me in."

The school teacher had punished Tommy so often for talking during school, and the punishment had been apparently without effect, that as a last resort, she decided to notify Tommy's father of his son's fault. So, following the department mark on his next report were these words:

"In due time the report was returned with his father's signature, and under it was written:

"You ought to hear his mother."

"Major Rasher, I saw a man today who would like the pleasure of kicking you," said a friend.

"Kicking me? Give me his name at once!"

"I hardly like to tell you," said the other.

"I insist upon knowing," said the major.

"Ah, well, I'll tell you," said the other. "It's a soldier who's in the hospital with both legs off."

"Poor Mrs. Brown. I hear she has had a lot of trouble about her husband."

"Yes, poor dear."

"I understand there is a scandal mixed up in it."

"But have you heard the worst?"

"No—no! I haven't heard what Mrs. Gadabout has to say about it yet."

Sales of the Friendly Forest

Well, after Billy Bunny had said good-bye to Mrs. Cow he hopped across the Pleasant Meadow till he came to the Old Barn Yard. And as soon as the Weathercock saw him you should have heard him crow. Yes, sireenam. He crowed like a regular old-fashioned every-day rooster, and this made all the hens and chickens look up, and then of course they saw Billy Bunny. And they were so glad to see the little rabbit they forgot to wonder how the Weathercock could crow.

I guess the only person who wasn't glad to see little Billy Bunny was Mr. Sharp-tooth Rat. He peeked out of his hole and scowled, but the little rabbit didn't care, for nobody liked Mr. Sharp-tooth Rat, anyway.

Well, by and by, just as little Billy Bunny was looking in Henry Jenny's nest to see what a lot of lovely eggs she had laid, he should come along but the Miller's boy, and as soon as he saw the little rabbit he gave a yell and tried to catch him. The chickens tried to get in his way and Cuckoo Ducky tried to trip him up, but the Miller's boy didn't stumble a bit. No, sireen! He almost caught Billy Bunny, but as long as he didn't it all right. Billy Bunny was scared the little rabbit nearly to death.

If the Miller's boy had had his gun with him, or even his dog, I'm afraid there would have been no more Billy Bunny stories.

"Oh, please," said the Miller's boy, as the little rabbit squeezed through a hole in the henhouse and hopped away. "I should like to have caught that little rabbit!" Then Cuckoo Ducky began to crow, he was so glad he had him!

But Billy Bunny didn't stop for anything. He was too scared, and pretty soon he found himself in the Friendly Forest under the tree where Parson Owl lived. It was a long time since Billy Bunny had seen the old gentleman owl, so he stopped and looked up into the branches. But oh, dear! Instead of seeing the blinky-winky friendly face of old Parson Owl he saw a pair of yellow eyes and a big red mouth with sharp teeth. And then down from the tree jumped a wildcat and mowed in a dreadful way.

"Oh, please," Mrs. Wilkett, let me go," cried the little rabbit, and he looked around for a hollow stump to hide in or a hole to crawl into, but there wasn't anything like that in sight. So he turned to the cruel wildcat and said, "Please don't let me go!" And then he opened his mouth and took out a big, round doughnut, and gave it to the wildcat. "Take it home to your wild kittens and use it for a treat," said Mrs. Wilkett. And would you believe it, she said she would, for it pleased her to think that little Billy Bunny would give her a doughnut for her kittens, but no one else had ever done that before, you see.

Careless Use of Soap Spoils the Hair

Soap should be used very carefully, if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This irritates the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is just ordinary mulitised coconut oil (which is pure and greaseless), and is better than the most expensive soap or anything else you can use.

One or two teaspoonfuls will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulitised coconut oil at any pharmacy, it's very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months.

TALL BARBERRY BUSH MUST BE DESTROYED

MAYOR FATHERS ISSUES PROCLAMATION CALLING ON PEOPLE TO AID IN ELIMINATION OF THIS DANGEROUS BUSH.

SAVE THE WHEAT CROP!

Thousands of Bushes May Be Saved by Pulling the Dangerous Barberry Bushes Which Spread Black or Stem Rust.

Acting in co-operation with L. S. Cheney, a representative of the U. S. department of agriculture who is at present working in the county to eliminate the tall barberry, Mayor James A. Fathers issued a proclamation this morning calling upon the people of Janesville to assist in the destruction and eradication of this plant, so dangerous to the wheat crop. It is hoped that the people will take action at once to rid the city and county of this bush, which helps to spread wheat rust and is recognized throughout the country as being extremely dangerous. The proclamation reads as follows:

"To the People of the City of Janesville:

"It has long been known that the tall barberry propagates the destructive wheat rust. Fourteen years ago Denmark eradicated these shrubs with the result that black rust epidemics no longer occur.

"The federal department of agriculture has requested the state of Wisconsin to join with the surrounding states of the upper Mississippi valley in fighting out the dangerous barberry as a patriotic measure to protect the grain crops.

"The state of North Dakota practically wiped out the barberry last year and has prohibited the growing of this plant within the state.

"The state of Iowa has been urging its eradication for some time.

"The Minnesota public safety commission has ordered the immediate destruction of the barberry as a war measure.

"The State Council of Defense of Wisconsin has issued a request to the citizens of the state to destroy the rust-producing barberries.

"The success of the movement depends on the thoroughness with which the work of eradication is carried out. The farmers of Wisconsin have been called upon to increase the wheat acreage by 40 per cent. Our city people by making a small sacrifice of plants and contributing a little time will supplement the work of the farmer and thereby it is possible to contribute almost as much to the increased food supply in this direction as the entire efforts of the farmer.

"Therefore, I would call upon the citizenship of Janesville to assist in the destruction and eradication of the tall barberry wherever found and join with the farmers in this nationwide effort to increase the nation's food supply.

"JAS. A. FATHERS, Mayor."

There are three different varieties of barberry commonly planted in Wisconsin which represent two distinct kinds of plant—the common or red barberry and the Japanese barberry. The Japanese barberry is a bushy shrub, which is a native of Japan. It has two forms, the one with green leaves and the one with purple leaves, both of which are dangerous, and the low spreading Japanese barberry, which is a shrub. farmers in past years and have greatly reduced the food supply. The stem rust is the most severe disease with which the grain grower has to contend. In 1916 such a rust epidemic caused a loss of over 100,000 bushels of spring wheat. Of course no one should expect that the destruction of the barberry will stop all of the loss from the rust. There are other grain rust diseases besides the black or stem rust. Moreover, this rust may overwinter on grasses or grains without the presence of the barberry. But it starts so slowly during the summer from these sources that relatively little damage results. On the other hand the presence of the barberry gives the rust a "running start" in the spring a month ahead of what it would otherwise get, and then if weather conditions favor, the rust becomes epidemic and causes disaster to crops.

CORPORAL M'DIARMID WRITES FROM FRANCE

Janesville Young Man Now Stationed in France Tells of Conditions in Letter to His Mother.

Corporal John McDiarmid of Co. M, 128th U. S. Inf., has written a very interesting letter to his mother, Mrs. John McDiarmid, 150 North Pearl street. Corporal McDiarmid gives a very vivid description of the village in which his company is quartered and goes on to tell of the conditions that exist in France. His letter follows:

Dear Folks:

I have thought that I would spend St. Patrick's day in France a year ago, but it did not go so bad, as I washed my clothes and wandered around over the hills.

Your letter of Feb. 16th last Saturday and I am told that we are going to have some more mail this week. I also heard that we were going to get paid tomorrow. Before we left Waco the captain bought a lot of tobacco and if he hadn't we would be out of luck for smoking. If you send tobacco wrap a catch around the back of the neck and you will find it useful. You ought to see me sitting on the stone wall near here reading the Gazette. Even if it was a month old it was news that I could read and appreciate.

Reading matter is pretty scarce over here at the present time but the Y. M. C. A. is putting up a hut here and we will be able to find plenty of reading. Time goes awfully slow over here and anything to pass the hours away is welcome.

Near our billet house lives a woman who lost two sons in the battle of Verdun and in the same house lives a family who also lost a boy. In the evening they gather around and try to teach us French and learn English. This morning the man of the house came out and we said "Bonjour" and he came back with "good morning," which rather took us by surprise.

At night we are the first bunch of soldiers to be quartered in this village as every time we are around the people bunch up and try to talk to us.

One of the favorite pastimes is to sit and watch an old shepherd bring in the sheep and goats at night, every one of the animals knows just when to fall out of line. After supper the old man comes around with a bunch of news. I guess it is news as the old people gather around and get very excited at times. We all listen and think it all right, though we don't know what he reads.

The weather here is real warm and it seems to get more so every day. I hate to think what it will be in a little while. Outside here is not so bad. Four hours in the morning and a short hike in the afternoon is what the drill schedule calls for. Today we have inspection and they are slow in getting around and all we have to do is loaf. It does not seem as if we are at war as we hear little or no news, but later on we will learn by facts I suppose.

From what we hear I guess the Germans are getting more than they anticipated and I would like to get in a few jabs myself. Some say that it will be over and we will be home by Christmas, and others say that it will last two years and it will find us in the big ditch. I am well and gaining weight. Will write again in a few days.

(BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS.)

Pittsburgh, Pa., April 12.—The dead body of Private Lewis F. Heise, aged twenty-five, of Sheboygan, Wis., of the Twentieth United States infantry, was found at Turtle Creek, near here, today. The soldier had either jumped or fallen from a fast Pennsylvania train. He was being taken to his home after a long period of illness.

Pleasant Fields Of Holy Writ

THE INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

Second Quarter. Lesson II. Mark VIII, 27-35. April 14, 1918.

Golden Text: If any man would come after me let him deny himself and take up his cross and follow me. Mark VIII, 24.

JESUS REQUIRES CONFESSION AND LOYALTY.

As Jesus prayed when he chose his apostles, so now he prays as he reveals to them the difficult doctrine of his cross. * * * The apostles' belief in the Messiahship of Jesus had been a growth. They may have seen in him at first only the son of Joseph and Mary, a man of their own race and their own time. Now, though that had never expressed it, they believed him the Son of God. * * *

As a background of their own confession, he draws from them the current opinion concerning himself. It is favorable but crude. Upon this murky base Peter's "credo" stands like a clear-cut cameo, "Thou art the Christ!"

Jesus sets before the disciples their difficult lesson—one calculated to dash their enthusiasm. Previous intimations seem to have made but superficial impressions. Only the regal portraits of the Messiah had hitherto caught their ambitious eyes. * * * Now the Master reveals to them a Shiloh, not on his way to coronation, but to the cross. Do you wonder heart failed these "disciples"? Their idea had been of a victory that could come through sacrifice and death. Peter only voiced the doubt of all now, as he had voiced their faith a moment before. The Messiah's death meant irretrievable ruin to them. * * * It is evidence of Jesus' true humanity that Peter's protest was a temptation to him. Jesus' flesh revolted as much as Peter's did. That "flesh" of both could only be offset by a "zeal of the spirit." What Jesus needed was disciples who would not be ashamed of their new conception of the Messiahship—willing to forego their dreams of political independence and take the Via Dolorosa instead of the regal highway. And this, too, not to be an occasional affair, but their very life. For this was the very life of his kingdom. * * *

Master's patience with his dazed pupils. He knows they cannot reach such height at a bound. He spends eighteen months in training them to the sight of his rejection, agony and death. * * * One blessed word of comfort he gives them straightway. The Kingdom is very unlike what they had expected; but some of them will not taste death before they see it. And when they see it they will be satisfied.

THE TEACHER'S LANTERN.

In his last year Jesus turned from the multitude and concentrated his attention on his disciples. To perpetuate his church, he trimmed and squared them as foundation stones to bear the superstructure. With this in view he led them to localities where he was unknown and where his private instructions would be least interrupted by public demands. * * * It was in the glorious sanctuary of nature—"the Switzerland of Palestine"—that the greatest "credo" was first uttered. In that word, "Thou art the Christ!" Peter burst the shell of an hereditary and universal misconception of the Messiah. He first spread the wings of a true Messianic faith and soared above the temporal ideas of throne, army and conquest. At sound of that confession Jesus was in a transport of joy. It repaid him for all the toil, humiliation and sacrifice of his ministry. But while joyously setting the seal of approval on Peter's creed, he also declares its source to be supernatural. * * * But what is the meaning of this affirmation, "On this rock I will build my church"? Those who say that Jesus addressed Peter only as the spokesman of the apostles, and that what he said to him applied equally to all; nor with those who affirm that Peter's confession, not Peter's self, was the rock on which Jesus built his Church. * * * Would it not be better to take the language just as it stands and admit that Jesus built his Church on the man Peter? But he is such a man as Jesus describes—a man with a revelation. It is the man as a confessor that makes the basis of the Church. The confession apart, be it never so orthodox, is at best a dead thing. But the confession on the lip and in the character—that is the liveliest thing in the world. * * * Well says the apostle, "No man can say that Jesus is the Christ except God be with him." Of course, any one could say the words, parrot-like. But no one can say them as they should be said, in a manner pleasing to God, with faith and loyalty, until he becomes a new creature. Peter was first to confess in this manner. * * * Gates of Hades soon or late close on all the world contains. But one thing escapes them. Jesus says, "My Church—gates of hell shall not prevail!" Positive enactments (whatsoever—whatsoever loose): the legislation incidental to the growth of the Church shall be approved and confirmed in heaven.

Scarcely had the confession been made before the injunction against publishing it was given. The reason is evident. The apostles were not sufficiently schooled to preach it, nor the people to receive it. * * * The key to the subtle profit-and-loss text in this connection is in the double sense in which the term "life" is used. Whoever makes it his supreme concern to conserve the profits of the natural life shall be bankrupt spiritually; but whose discounts the bodily life for the soul shall enrich his immortal life. As the soul is everything—who can name its purchase price? * * * It has been suggested that Jesus may have at some time witnessed a crucifixion or at least the march of the condemned, and that against his will, for it was a common mode of capital punishment. If this be true special significance attaches to its reference to his own impending fate. His calmness in facing the most cruel and shameful penalty ever devised is superb and divine.

HOW TO ENJOY SUNDAY.

Motto: Sunday is the golden clasp that binds the volume of the week together. Longfellow.

It is absurd to attempt to associate joy with either the Pharisee or Puritan Sunday. They were created not for man, but man for them. The prophet protests that God has nothing to do with a day the chief purpose of which is to afflict a man's soul. Over against the fictitious Sabbath he pictures a day that the Lord hath made as one of undoing of burdens and breaking yokes, dealing bread to the hungry and covering the naked. The effect of such a Sunday is like a sunrise.

Dance Music.

Manitowoc, April 12.—No more will the "snaky" strains of the moonlight waltz be heard in this city. The neg has decided that from now on the moon "shall be full" and that every light in dance halls must be turned on without any half light effects for any dances. Too much hugging in the "moonlight" caused the ban.

HANOVER LUTHERANS WILL OBSERVE NEXT SUNDAY AS LOAN DAY

After Each Service Congregation Will Meet as Body of Citizens to Discuss Plans for Pushing the Third Liberty Loan.

Next Sunday will be observed by the Immanuel Lutheran congregation at Hanover as Liberty Loan Sunday. There will be services both morning and evening, the former in German and the latter in English. At the morning service the pastor will speak on "Christ, Our Great Example," and in the evening he will deliver a sermon on "Mormonism." After each service the congregation will meet as a body of citizens and the pastor, the Rev. P. H. Felton, will deliver patriotic addresses on the third Liberty Loan. The congregation will then decide upon ways and means to further the subscription to the loan. The people of the congregation of the Immanuel Lutheran church are so-called German-Americans. The services are equally divided in German and English. The members have given liberally to all war purposes; the Ladies' Aid has long been active in Red Cross work, organizing before the local Hanover chapter was formed. It has emptied its treasury and donated all of its funds in support of this important activity. The solicitors for the county War Fund found no slackers among the German Lutherans of Hanover and there is no question that these people will take an active interest in the present loan drive. A service flag and the Stars and Stripes were hung in the church some months ago.

There will be no Sunday school next Sunday as the time will be taken up by the patriotic meeting. All members of the church are urged to be present to take part in the deliberations.

AUTO HITS BICYCLE; YOUNG MAN INJURED

Carl Husen, Aged 19, Receives Severe Cut When Struck by Auto Last Evening at 7:30 O'clock.

Carl Husen, aged 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Husen, 120 South Franklin street, was severely injured last evening about seven thirty o'clock when struck by an automobile driven by Joseph Pearl on North Franklin street near the water fountain.

Young Husen, who is an employee of the Janesville Shirt and Overall Co., was riding north on Franklin street when the car turned south in Exchange. Both the boy and the driver were driving close to the water fountain and were unable to see each other until too late. When the car hit the bicycle the young boy was thrown through the windshield and cut severely around the neck and head. The driver was going at a moderate pace and the fact that the car was low accounted for the boy being thrown against the windshield.

He was immediately taken to the office of Dr. Waulke over the Baker's drug store and the ambulance sent for, as it was thought that the lad was seriously injured. He lost a great quantity of blood while being carried to the doctor's office. After an examination by the doctor it was found that no bones were broken and that the only damage that resulted was a severe cut on the side of the head. After being treated by Doctor Waulke the injured boy was taken to his home on South Franklin street where he is reported this morning to be resting quietly.

Lend Him a Hand!

Here Is YOUR Boy—going over the top, his gun in hand, his jaw set, his heart on fire. It is the most dramatic moment in the life of this soldier—and in the life of this nation.

His heart and mind are set on one thing—VICTORY—victory over an enemy who stands for acts and ideas which this soldier despises—which he is ready to give his life to destroy.

We here at home hate these things, too. We are pledged to their destruction—to our last dollar and our last man. But this soldier can actually—get-his-hands-on-them—and root them out of the world forever—if we will lend him a hand.

This Boy Is the Symbol of Fighting America

He stands for the aspiration, the conviction of a hundred million people translated into action. He is doing what the rest of us are dreaming. Only through him can we win the Victory.

But He Can't Do It With His Bare Hands! He asks you to back him up with guns, shells, tanks, airplanes. Let's lend him a hand by lending our dollars. Then no power in the world can prevent him from winning the Victory.

The long fighting ages of the world have never seen a better soldier than this boy of yours—your son—your husband—your brother—your friend. He stands for the sons of America, hundreds of thousands strong, soon to be millions. He is doing his part—we must do ours!
